THE PROGRAM

The Sociology Department offers a major (34 credits) and a minor (18 credits). The major develops skills in social theorizing and research through courses in general sociology, statistics, research methods, classical social theory, contemporary social theory, and sociological analysis. Students complete their program with electives in subjects such as crime, deviance, sociology of education, social psychology, social and economic inequity, race relations, education, and religion. Sociology minors are free to complete their program with electives after completing an introductory sociology course.

The Criminal Justice program is a multidisciplinary major (34 credits) and minor (18 credits) administered by the Sociology Department. Emphasizing research and theory, the program prepares students for careers in law and the criminal justice system by combining a liberal arts background with specific courses in criminal justice, political science, psychology, and sociology. Majors must complete a senior seminar on criminal theory and measurement.

RESEARCH & PRACTICAL EXPERIENCES

The Sociology Department urges students to design and implement research projects under faculty supervision. These projects deepen knowledge on specific subjects and develop research skills. The American Sociological Association encourages undergraduates to submit their research papers, which are then evaluated for creativity and potential contributions to the discipline.

THE PASSION

Sociologists study human relationships. Individuals rarely live or develop in isolation, and all people are connected to others as social beings. Sociologists address the problems of society by investigating how interpersonal relationships and the social contexts in which they occur influence human thoughts and behaviors. Both sociology and criminal justice majors are trained to empirically examine human behavior and social interaction. This perspective, known as the “sociological imagination” applies across a broad range of fields because it encourages students to recognize how other individuals, groups, institutions, and international circumstances influence how people think, act, and behave.

Students interested in applying classroom lessons to real-life situations may take advantage of the Department’s internships and practica. Students may sign up and work under a professor with the skills and knowledge to guide and help them secure community contacts and practicum/internship positions. As the Inland Northwest’s largest city, Spokane offers numerous opportunities for students to serve in social service agencies and criminal justice institutions.

OUTCOMES

Gonzaga Sociology and Criminal Justice graduates plan to pursue a wide variety of careers. Law, law enforcement, teaching, counseling, and social work top the list of most desired careers for these students. Additionally, a few students will volunteer in of humanitarian and nonprofit organizations such as AmeriCorps, the Jesuit Volunteer Corps, and the Peace Corps prior to entering the workforce or attending graduate school.

Gonzaga Sociology and Criminal Justice graduates have attended the following institutions for graduate school:

Sociology/Criminal Justice
- Boston University
- Brandeis University
- John Jay College of Criminal Justice (NY)
- Northwestern University
- Portland State University
- Syracuse University
- University of Southern California
- Washington State University

Law School
- Georgetown University
- Gonzaga University
- Santa Clara University
- St. John’s University
- University of Washington

Master of Social Work
- Eastern University (PA)
- University of Washington
THE PEOPLE

In addition to teaching, Sociology Department faculty serve as advisors and mentors assisting students with academic and professional planning. Many of the faculty also belong to the American Sociological Association and the Pacific Sociological Association.

As the major in criminal justice is interdisciplinary, professors from the Departments of Psychology, Political Science, and adjunct faculty working in criminal justice fields join Sociology and Criminal Justice Department professors in student instruction and advising.

Faculty Contacts & Specialties

Matt Bahr | Ph.D., Purdue University | sociological research methods and statistics, sociology of religion, political sociology, and population and demography | bahr@gonzaga.edu

Andrea Fallenstein | M.A., Washington State University | juvenile delinquency, sociology of mental illness, organizations, and race/class/gender | fallenstein@gonzaga.edu

Vikas Gumbhir | Ph.D., University of Oregon | deviance/criminology, policing, research methods, statistics, survey research, and symbolic interactionism | gumbhir@gonzaga.edu

William A. Hayes | Ph.D., University of California, Berkeley | comparative/historical sociology, cultural sociology, political economy, sociology of knowledge, and East Asian development | hayesw@gonzaga.edu

Joe Johnston | Ph.D., University of Colorado, Boulder | social psychology, statistics, sociology of education |

Marguerite Marin | Ph.D., University of California, Santa Barbara | social and economic inequalities, collective behavior, politics in society, race and minority relations, and Latin American development | marin@calvin.gonzaga.edu

Andrea Bertotti Metoyer | Ph.D., Loyola University Chicago | Dept. Chair | inequality, health/medicine, gender, statistics, and environmental sociology | bertottimetoyer@gonzaga.edu

Al Miranne | Ph.D., Washington State University | criminology, corrections, juvenile delinquency, and criminal justice | miranne@gonzaga.edu

Naghme Morlock | Ph.D., University of Colorado, Boulder | criminal justice, research methods |

Jane Rinehart | Ph.D., New York University | classical and contemporary social theory and the sociological study of gender, dying and death, and family life | rinehart@gonzaga.edu

Edward Vacha | Ph.D., University of California, Santa Barbara | deviant behavior, social psychology, sociology of education, research methods, program evaluation, and applied sociology | vacha@gonzaga.edu

Georgie Ann Weatherby | Ph.D., University of Washington | sociology of religion, law and society, criminal law, social theory, and deviant behavior | weatherb@gonzaga.edu

Nicole Willms | Ph.D., University of Southern California | sociology of sport, sociology of gender, sociological research methods | willms@gonzaga.edu